

Staff Impression: Perseus

Perseus is tall, with a medium to athletic build, a result of his passion for fitness and leading an overall healthy lifestyle. He enjoys strength training as well as swimming and mountain biking. He has a full head of thick, wavy brown hair however he was born with blonde hair which he maintained for much of his childhood before it started turning darker. Perseus has soft, gentle brown/green eyes, a Roman Nose and medium to tan skin tone.

Perseus is currently going to Graduate School studying music with ambitions of playing in an orchestra one day. He is incredibly musically talented, specifically with the trombone. When Perseus isn't busy studying for his masters, he enjoys spending his free time cooking, listening to and playing music, working out, biking and reading. His favorite literature is cognitive thinking style books. All around, Perseus is a disciplined, hard working donor who also tends to have a silly, playful side, which makes him a well-rounded candidate for our program.
