Dalmore is a delightful 5'9" with a medium build that gives him a friendly presence. His short, dark brown hair is often slightly ruffled, as if he's always just stepped out of a lighthearted adventure. His downturned, rounded brown eyes and a quirky scar on his right eyebrow add character to his playful looks. He has a slim, pointed nose that gives him an air of charm, while his thin lips often curl into a cheeky smile. A twirling mustache adds the finishing touch to his whimsical look, suggesting he's always ready for a bit of fun and laughter.

Dalmore is an aspiring entrepreneur with a passion for project management and a knack for construction. With dreams of opening his own business, he's always on the go—both in the office and on the job site! When he's not managing projects, you can find him dashing through trails as a fast runner, proudly sporting his half-marathon medal. But Dalmore isn't just about work and running; he has a creative side, too! He channels his thoughts and feelings into poetry, capturing moments of inspiration that often strike during his outdoor adventures. An avid lover of nature, he delights in taking his kids on hiking escapades, where they explore the great outdoors together. Oh, and let's not forget his favorite animal: the eagle. Just like this magnificent bird, Dalmore soars high with his dreams and encourages his little ones to reach for the sky!
