

Pemberton 13172 Staff Impression

Pemberton stands about 5'11", carrying himself with a natural, upright posture. He's got a lean, athletic build that suggests he's always on the move, but you'd never catch him bragging about it. His hair is dark brown, usually kept out of his face with a quick, casual swipe of his hand. Full eyebrows frame his deep brown, almond-shaped eyes, which are rounded at the edges and surprisingly easy to get lost in. His nose is straight and long, ending in a rounded tip that softens his otherwise strong features. Full lips and a sharply angled jawline give his face a striking definition, but what stands out most is his ever-present, warm, approachable expression.

By day, Pemberton works in software development. Outside the office, though, he's a bit of a wild card: picking up the drums, swinging hard on the tennis court, and quietly transforming his backyard into a mini orchard. He's got a real knack for nurturing things, whether it's a young fig tree or a new friendship. People tend to open up around him; he has that steady, easygoing presence that makes even awkward silences feel comfortable. Calm, curious, and quietly driven, Pemberton is always growing, just like those fruit trees he's so proud of.